Is there anything else you think could be done to improve the Village's current outreach efforts?

Although we think that over time our culture is changing, it is always the case that the few always are the ones most involved. When controversy erupts it is the minority that becomes the most outspoken. Most people either do not have the time or better believe it is important enough to allocate the time to give back to the community and participate.

A magazine is an inappropriate vehicle for communicating Village business. I hope that a newsletter would include frequent info on businesses in downtown Long Grove.

A lot needs to be done not the least of which includes improving the website, having signs in the village center informing residents of events, and doing a better job of getting people signed up electronically for village events and affairs.

The village has definitely increased its efforts at communications over the past several years. Right now- if a person wants to be informed they have multiple ways to do so and with this forum, those who are unhappy with a situation have a way to register their issue on a forum open to all. Beyond this, the Village could add some social media accounts, but each such system requires time (and therefore $) to maintain.

The Village has selectively published information and does not fully inform residents on vital issues that face our community, like Rt 53. Many residents still do not know the that toll road might bisect our town, affecting our downtown, water supply and wetlands. I am glad for recent changes like the article on the tollway's inadequate funding. It was a very substantive article. Late in the game, but a start at good communication!

Anything printed in LGL can be published in the Bridge. LGL is redundant and ineffective. Additionally, it is outrageously expensive. The publication does not go to every household in the Village. It is a "ad mag" and I wish the Board would focus on raising the bar of communication through a more professional Bridge newsletter (online or not) that does far more than sprinkle in "newsy bits" of social information. Tell us about the road program, Rt. 53, water to downtown, the budget, etc. We want to be an informed population, not pandered to. Further, this Village has conducted survey after survey in a variety of forms, the last costing $40K. I don't know what this survey is costing the Village, but the bottom line is, if you are asking us for our opinions, please heed them.

Thank you for helping us to understand and improve our community outreach efforts!
